Prepared by Lee Harris on 02/02/2026. Data from 1/30/2026.

SYMBOL (OTRFX/OTRGX)

SPDR S&P 500 ETF (SPY)

Equity markets closed the year near record levels buoyed by a combination of AI-driven earnings optimism, softening inflation trends, and expectations for increased liquidity as the Fed transitions away from restrictive policy. With the nomination of Kevin Warsh as the new Fed chair, the broader direction of policy will likely remain accommodative, which continues to matter more to markets than the precise timing of individual moves.

iShares Emerging Market Bond ETF (EMB)
First Trust Preferred Sec and Inc ETF (FPE)

Within fixed income, emerging-market bonds and preferred securities continue to occupy a favorable position. Emerging markets now enter this phase of the cycle with improved balance sheets, more credible monetary frameworks, and attractive starting yields relative to developed markets. Preferred stocks, meanwhile, have benefited from rate stability rather than outright declines, offering attractive income with less sensitivity to long-duration bond volatility.

The market environment entering the new year has remained constructive. For much of the past year, investor sentiment oscillated between concerns over tariffs, worries about economic growth, and uncertainty around the timing of Federal Reserve rate cuts. Those crosscurrents remain in place, but incoming data since mid-December suggests the underlying economic backdrop has stabilized rather than deteriorated.

Over the past several weeks, economic data has been remarkably steady. Growth remains solid, the labor market has yet to show meaningful signs of stress, and inflation has continued to moderate at the margin. This combination has allowed risk assets to extend their advance, supported by easing financial conditions and expectations that the Federal Reserve remains in an easing cycle, even if the exact timing of future cuts remains data-dependent.

Looking ahead, January and February data releases will be important in confirming whether the current “Goldilocks” backdrop—steady growth with moderating inflation—can persist. Inflation reports, employment data, corporate earnings (particularly within AI-related sectors), and Federal Reserve communications will continue to shape market expectations.

Consistent with these conditions, the OnTrack Core Fund remains fully invested and leveraged. The portfolio continues to emphasize low-volatility bond and income funds, with a meaningful allocation to emerging-market bond strategies. Adjustments remain incremental and responsive to market conditions.

Disclosures

Objective: The OnTrack Core Fund seeks total return while keeping the Fund's volatility and downside risk below that of major equity market indices.

Strategy: To seek the Fund's objective, the Fund's subadvisor, Price Capital Management, Inc., uses a flexible investment approach that emphasizes capital preservation, but allows the portfolio managers to adopt a less conservative posture and to increase emphasis on capital appreciation when they believe the additional risk is warranted by favorable market conditions. The subadvisor invests long-or-short primarily in stocks, bonds and commodities using the subadvisor's technical and risk control strategies.

The subadvisor's technical strategy is based on a form of technical analysis known as "chart analysis" that attempts to invest in up-trending assets that are expected to produce above average risk-adjusted returns. Up-trending assets are those with generally rising prices and down-trending assets are those with generally falling prices. The subadvisor also uses this technique to take short positions in down-trending assets.

Neither Morningstar nor its content providers are responsible for any damages or losses arising from any use of this information. Past performance is no guarantee of future results.

The Morningstar Rating™ for funds, or "star rating", is calculated for managed products (including mutual funds, variable annuity and variable life subaccounts, exchange-traded funds, closed-end funds, and separate accounts) with at least a three-year history. Exchange-traded funds and open-ended mutual funds are considered a single population for comparative purposes. It is calculated based on a Morningstar Risk-Adjusted Return measure that accounts for variation in a managed product's monthly excess performance, placing more emphasis on downward variations and rewarding consistent performance. The Morningstar Rating does not include any adjustment for sales loads. The top 10% of products in each product category receive 5 stars, the next 22.5% receive 4 stars, the next 35% receive 3 stars, the next 22.5% receive 2 stars, and the bottom 10% receive 1 star. The Overall Morningstar Rating for a managed product is derived from a weighted average of the performance figures associated with its three, five, and 10-year (if applicable) Morningstar Rating metrics. The weights are: 100% three-year rating for 36-59 months of total returns, 60% five-year rating/40% three-year rating for 60-119 months of total returns, and 50% 10-year rating/30% five-year rating/20% three-year rating for 120 or more months of total returns. While the 10-year overall star rating formula seems to give the most weight to the 10- year period, the most recent three-year period actually has the greatest impact because it is included in all three rating periods.
